GOVERNOR BRANDON CRAFT
INAUGURAL ADDRESS
JUNE 14, 1995

Mr. Stine, distinguished guests, staff, and citizens of Mountaineer Boys' State. As the 58th Governor of Mountaineer Boys' State, I am deeply honored and consider myself lucky to be in such good company. I have so much to be grateful for. At this time, I want to introduce to you the people who are responsible for everything that I have become so far. My fellow citizens, it gives me great pleasure to introduce to you my father, Mike, my mother, Helen, my sister Traci, and most important, my grandmother Ruth. Mom, Dad, Grandma, and Sis, I Love You and Thank You for making this possible.

Just a few short days ago, we arrived here as 345 individuals, but today I feel that we are as one. I make my pledge to you now as I did last night that I am working for you, and that I am going to achieve your goals and objectives as your governor. We have already begun the task. This morning our new Superintendent of Schools, Mike Showalter, brought to order the 1st meeting of our State Board of Education composed of 4 Federalists and 5 Nationalists. I would like all of you to stand and be recognized. We are already working to make our school system the best in the nation. This investment in our future will ensure that our children will live a better life than we do now.

My staff and I are anxious to work with the Legislature, and we fully intend to introduce and pass legislation that will change Boys' State forever. And now at this time I would like to introduce your legislative leaders: Rich Paesani, Speaker of the House, and Matt Echard, President of the Senate. Give me some good bills, guys, and I will sign them into law.

Most of all, we should not forget that we are here to learn. Learn we shall, but we will make this one of the best weeks of our lives. We will make friendships here that will be lifelong. So remember, as long as we live that, no man is a failure who has friends.

Now, I would like to introduce our party leader and our new chief executive to the governor; Austin Gard. Austin, thank you for all of your hard work and support.

I would be remiss if I didn't thank the most important people of all in this process and that is each and every one of you. Thanks guys, but we're not done yet. Gentlemen, we have 66 hours left to make our mark, and we need all your help at every level of government. We will work together and accomplish our goals, and years from now, they will say that 1995 was the best Boys' State ever.

Thank You and God Bless!

Brandon M. Craft

Drew Mason of Marion Cottage was the first to answer all three puzzle questions correctly. He received a free t-shirt. Congratulations Drew! Matt Echard was the first to answer the puzzle about the tea cup and the piece of paper. Congratulations Matt!

ANSWERS TO THE PUZZLES:

- Puzzle #1 -
- 1. Take chicken across
  - 2. Come back - get corn
  - 3. Take corn across
  - 4. Take chicken back across
  - 5. Take fox across where the corn is
  - 6. Go back and get the chicken.

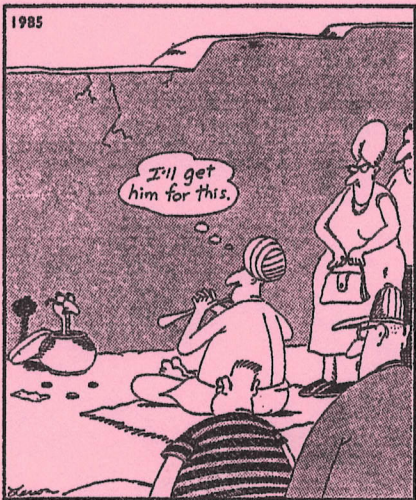

- Puzzle #2 -
- $0 + 1 - 2 + 3 + 4 - 5 - 6 + 7 + 8 - 9 = 1$
(answers will vary)

- Puzzle #3 -
- 1. Fill the 7 gallon bucket, then pour it into the five. When the five is full, there are two gallons left in the seven gallon bucket.
  - 2. Pour the water out of the five gallon bucket and pour the two gallons in the seven gallon bucket into the five.
  - 3. Fill the seven gallon bucket again.
  - 4. Immerse the five gallon bucket in the full seven gallon bucket, letting the water in the seven slosh out. When the water level in the seven is even with the top of the five, all but two gallons will have been displaced. Pour the two gallons left in the seven into the two already in the five and you will have exactly four gallons.

- Puzzle #4 - The tea cup would win the race because the paper is always stationery.

Karate teaches important disciplines, says two-time world champ

Brandon Craft says the mental and physical disciplines he learned in the martial arts have carried over into every area of his life. A two-time karate champion by the time he was 12, the Sherman High School junior now teaches martial arts, plays football, basketball and maintains an excellent grade-point average. He tries to instill values like respect for elders and the importance of a good education within the students in his karate classes.

By Bev Davis
FEATURES/LIFESTYLES EDITOR

BLOOMING ROSE — By the time Brandon Craft was 12, he was a two-time world champion in the art of karate.

At 17, he is a martial arts instructor, plays football, basketball and maintains an academic average at the top of his class at Sherman High School.

His parents, Mike and Helen Craft, attribute much of their son's success to his involvement with martial arts.

"I don't think people realize how much discipline is involved," said Bob Stein, an official with Boys State, where Craft often gives karate demonstrations.

Tall and athletic, Craft still finds karate to be a physically demanding sport as well.

"I have more injuries from karate than football. There are many aspects which are a lot harder than they look," Craft said.

When he demonstrates what appear to be kicks and jabs, this expert is putting hundreds of small motions into action at once.

"Each move is learned one step at a time. That's part of the discipline. That's why someone who wants to learn karate needs to be willing to stick with it and learn how to do the moves correctly," Craft said.

His skills have taken him all over the United States and to competitions in several other countries.

"It's a real education in and of itself," said Craft's mom. "He's learned about different cultures, their money exchanges, mannerisms, customs and even a little of their languages along the way."

Craft agrees.

"It's hard to get kids today to see that. In our classes we really stress the need for concentration and the mental part of it, but the kids come in wanting to learn how to kick and fight the way they see actors do that on TV," he said.

Students often find it hard to accept the teaching that one should make every effort to avoid a fight instead of becoming involved in one, he added.

"Learning to walk away from trouble is part of the discipline. We especially don't want kids out trying to start a fight just so they can show off their karate skills."

Craft would love to see karate become a medal sport in the Olympics, especially while he would qualify to compete.

"It's not likely to happen in time for me, but I hope that someday it will be recognized on that level. It certainly deserves to be," Craft said.

Among the top juniors in the United States, Craft said karate has taught him to balance his goals and objectives in life.

He plans to go to college and major in physical therapy.

"I won't make karate my main goal, but it will always be a part of my life," he said.

PRESIDENT ABRAHAM LINCOLN MAKES APPEARANCE AT MBS

On Wednesday, June 14, 1995, an excellent portrayal of Abraham Lincoln was presented to the citizens at the evening assembly. The portrayal was presented by James Dague, and the audience was spellbound at James' presentation. James' presentation included, The Gettysburg Address, Great Moments with Mr. Lincoln, The Unknown Soldier (by Billy Rose), and The Proclamation of West Va. Statehood. The hat he wears in his portrayal of Lincoln was given to him 8 years ago by A. James Manchin when Mr. Manchin visited Boys' State and spoke to the citizens. James and Mr. Manchin once again shared the podium. He was assisted by some good friends, Mr. Art Zochler, senior counselor of Panhandle Cottage and Miss Susie McClain, a 1995 graduate of West Liberty State College.

James lives in Triadelphia with his parents, Edward and Patty Dague. He graduated from Wheeling Park High School in 1988. He was a citizen of MBS in 1987 and returned for two consecutive years as a junior counselor in Panhandle Cottage where he was a citizen in 1987. He now serves on headquarters staff.

He holds an AA degree from WV Northern Community College in Liberal Arts. He is a senior studying Interdisciplinary Studies, concentrating in American Studies at West Liberty State College. James will graduate in December 1995.

James portrays Lincoln in talent and variety shows, 4-H and other civic groups, and to schools in various areas of the state. He also presented his portrayal of Lincoln on February 12, 1992 to the West Virginia State Senate in Charleston. He was accompanied by the 1991 Boys' State Senate.

His comments about Boys' State: "I consider Boys' State to be one of the best programs I have had the opportunity to participate in because it permits the citizens to elect their peers to public office and to meet their elected officials."

James was born with cerebral palsy. He said that this limits him somewhat; however, he can set a goal and eventually achieve it. We all need to learn a lesson from James. He has demonstrated his ability to rise above his disability throughout his life. In high school, he was a member of the National Honor Society and served as parliamentarian for Student Council. He attends Roney's Point Presbyterian Church.

James has one younger brother, Jerry, who is an EMT and a graduate of Fairmont State College, where he studied biology.

We wish James well and look forward to his returning to Boys' State each year to help with the program. He has been a real asset to us here at Jackson's Mill.

COTTAGE NEWS FROM MARION COUNTY - JUNE 14, 1995

FLAG ETIQUETTE

Proper care and presentation of the flag are as important as what the flag means to American citizens.

However, some citizens and businesses display the flag in an incorrect fashion.

The tattered flag located at the newly renovated Tax Revenue Center at 1001 Lee St. E. is an example, according to the Federal Flag Code, a code that outlines proper etiquette for display of the flag.

Jim Paige, secretary of tax and revenue, said a new flag has been ordered for the building.

"This flag has been up since 1986. Within the next week, a new one will be put up," he said.

Here are some dos and don'ts on flag care and etiquette that are listed in the Federal Flag Code:

- The flag should be displayed from sunrise to sunset. If displayed after sunset, a light must shine on it. The flag should be raised briskly and lowered slowly, and an all-weather flag is necessary in bad weather.

- The flag should be flown on designated days of historic meaning, such as the Fourth of July. However, it may be flown every day of the year. It also needs to be flown at all public buildings, where people vote on Election Day and when school is in session.

- A badly soiled, faded or torn flag should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning. This type of burning is not desecration of the flag.

- Flags should never be flown upside down unless of "a dire emergency" and it should never touch the ground.

- The flag should never be carried flat or have items carried on it. It should always be free floating and aloft. It also should never be used as clothing or a uniform.

- Groups may wear flag patches on a uniform, if they are worn in accordance with the flag code. A button or pin depicting the American flag may be worn as a demonstration of patriotism.

- Storage of the flag should be in a place where it cannot be soiled or damaged. The flag should not be drawn or marked on, used as drapery or drawn back in folds.

- The flag should not be used as a ceiling or table cloth or used for advertising purposes.

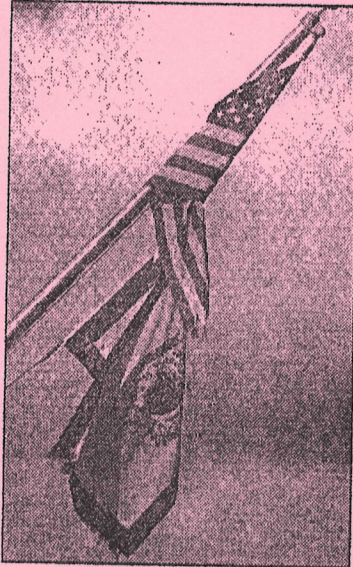

- Raising the flag to half-staff on Veterans or Armistice Day is incorrect. This day is set aside to honor veterans, not mourn them.

- When flying on a single flagstaff, along with another flag, the American flag must fly at the top. This assures it will be raised first and lowered last. On special days, it may be flown at half-staff. On Memorial Day, it should be flown at half-staff until noon, then raised to the top of the flag pole.

- Hanging vertically, the union (blue area with 50 stars) should be in the upper left corner. Against a wall, it should be at the top to the flag's own right.

- If the flag is mounted on a staff, the American flag should be to the right of the speaker and to the left of those looking at it. When displayed at the speaker's platform, it must be above and behind the speaker.

TATTERED: Jim Paige, secretary of tax and revenue, says a new flag has been ordered to replace the worn U.S. flag on the Tax Revenue Center on Lee Street.

SPORTS DIRECTOR FOR WVU SPEAKS TO CITIZENS

Shelley Poe, Director of Sports Information at WVU was in attendance at the Wednesday, evening meal. She was accompanied by Mike Logan and Lovett Purnell.

Shelley Poe is the woman responsible for the national level of attention these players received. She is a native of Morgantown. She is only one in a handful of women across the nation to hold such a powerful position.

This annual visit from Shelley Poe and some of the WVU athletes is one of the most well received programs of Mountaineer Boys' State.

Thanks again, Shelley!
